Hanover Dowel opens under new ownership

The Hanover Dowel Mill, on Cross Street, Bethel, has been sold and will open this week under new ownership. The mill, owned by Wallace and Frances Saunders, had been closed since last November.

The new owners are the J.A. Thurston Co., which operates a dowel mill in Rumford. Principals of the Thurston Co. are Mike Thurston and his sons, John, Peter and David.

Executive Vice President David ("Fuzzy") Thurston said the company will use the Hanover mill only temporarily, until a new building can be constructed at its Rumford plant. The manufacturing building at the Rumford plant was destroyed by fire in early February. "It's short-term—we hope," Mr. Thurston said of the move to Bethel. "It's just so we can stay in business."

Although the sawmill at the Rumford mill (on Rte. 120) is still operating, the dowel operation has ceased to exist, and this means Thurston's customers would be looking for other suppliers very quickly.

In addition to the fear of losing customers, the Thurstons were also afraid of losing trained staff. "The company employed about 45 people at the time of the fire," Mr. Thurston said. "We have to get our people off unemployment as fast as we can," Mr. Thurston said.

The existence of a vacant dowel mill was fortuitous for the Thurstons, since the operation at the Hanover mill was similar—though not identical—to the operation at the Rumford mill. "It was a great way to replace a lot of equipment [lost in the fire]," Mr. Thurston said.

He expected to have the mill producing dowels this week and was planning on a workforce of between 12 and 18 people.

Mr. Thurston stressed that his company was planning to operate the mill only until their Rumford operation got back on its feet. He said his company had no plans for the Bethel property once the Rumford mill again becomes operational.

Included in the purchase, for an undisclosed sum, were the land, equipment, and most of the buildings of the Hanover mill. Mr. Thurston said the land comes to just about 10 acres.

Newry voters approve fire department funding and computer purchase

At Town Meeting Monday night, Newry voters came within a few votes of voting plans for a town fire department. An article calling for the town to raise $58,000 for the Fire Department Fund eventually passed, 34-29, but only after heated debate.

Opponents to the measure argued that the fire protection currently provided by Bethel was adequate for meeting the town's needs, that there were not enough volunteers in town to staff a volunteer department, and that the long-term cost of the project had not been thought out. "We've got adequate service now," Fred Burk argued, "and these things just keep feeding on themselves."

A number of residents argued that if there were a need for increased protection it was in the area of Sunday River Ski Resort. If this were the case, they said, the whole town should not have to bear the cost of providing that protection. Residents from the Sunday River side countered that they paid much of the town's taxes and were entitled to an adequate level of services.

Sunday River Skiway Corp. President Les Otten, who served as moderator for the meeting, said he had doubts about the proposal himself. "There seem to be a number of holes in the plan," he said. "I'm not sure I'd vote for it."

Speaking in support of the measure, Selectman Steve Wight said Bethel was

Andover approves subdivision ordinances and permit-fee increases

Subdivision ordinances and a new fee schedule for building permits were the major topics of debate at Andover's Town Meeting Saturday.

The approximately 30 voters who turned out for the meeting eventually passed both the subdivision and permit-fee articles, but only after more than an hour of discussion.

A number of residents questioned whether a town the size of Andover needed detailed regulations covering such things as sidewalks and underground utilities.

"It's too much for this town," David Hawkes said of the subdivision ordinance. "If the people on the Planning Board don't like you, you'll be damned lucky to subdivide."

Various members of the Planning Board responded that the ordinances were not intended to stop anyone from building, but were necessary if the town were to have any control over the type and quality of development.

Stressing that the entire region, not just the immediate Bethel area, was coming under increased development pressure, Planning Board Member Robert Greeke used the dispute between Patten Corporation and the town of Hartford as an example of the dangers of being unprepared.

"They [Hartford] had limited or no subdivision regulations," he said. "Wouldn't you prefer to be ahead of the game rather than behind it?"

The Planning Board and Board of Selectmen have not worked out the final building permit fee schedule, but it is expected to be based on a sliding scale equal to one-tenth of 1 percent of the cost of the project.

Other articles passed at the meeting included those authorizing the town to spend $43,500 for the purchase of a front-end loader and to put $15,000 toward the closing of the town dump.

The Department of Environmental Protection has ordered that the town close its dump, and the selectmen have spent more than a year looking into alternatives. All of the alternatives will be more expensive than the present arrangement, Selectman Joe Myhrall said. But with most of the town located

Town manager's budget draft shows gross increase of 28%

Bethel Town Manager Rodney Lynch presented a draft budget this week showing a 28 percent increase in spending. Mr. Lynch told the Board of Selectmen Monday night the draft budget addresses growth and development issues, including the hiring of a part-time code enforcement officer.

The selectmen will take up the budget package at a number of workshop sessions in the next few weeks. The Budget Committee is expected to begin its review of the document in April, after which the budget will go back to the selectmen for final recommendation.

Among the largest single increases in the proposed budget are increased money to be set aside for closing the landfill and increased money for capital equipment. The landfill budget—to prepare to close out the existing landfill and prepare to find a replacement solid waste system—is pencilled in at $61,000, up from $10,000 this year. The capital equipment fund—with money included for a new dump truck and additional monies set aside for a future fire truck—is drafted at $92,500, up from $45,000.

The total gross budget drafted by the town manager comes to $972,346, compared to the present budget of $803,675.

Mt. Abram celebrates spring with lower rates, family weekend carnival

March means Spring Break at Mt. Abram. Spring Break means that during the week full-day tickets are only $10. And two can still ski for the price of one on "Twosdays."

Also during Spring Break the weekend lift ticket drops in price at the rate of $1 per day per weekend. March 5 and 6 are $19, March 12 and 13 are $18 per day, etc.

Mt. Abram Family Fun Weekend is March 12 and 13. Featured will be citizens races, obstacle races, costume parade with prizes, with the highlight being the torch light parade on Saturday evening at 7 p.m., followed by a ski movie. Grills will be provided on the summit for those who wish to cook out or have a picnic.

The selectmen predicted that the additional taxes to fuel the town budget, plus the expected 16 percent increase in the school district assessment would mean considerably higher taxes for local taxpayers.

In other business Monday night, a group of petitioners asked the selectmen to consider banning parking on one side of Broad Street. Currently parking is permitted on both sides, and the petitioners argued, this causes a hazard to safety.

Ted Davis, who began the petition—which was signed by 27 residents—told the board the street becomes basically one-way when it is restricted by cars parked on both sides. He said the Fire Department's ladder truck would probably not be able to negotiate the thoroughfare when it is clogged by snowbanks and parked cars.

Petitioner Lindsey Wieden charged it was the responsibility of The Bethel Inn to find off-street parking for its guests and employees who normally park on the street.

Selectman Peter Haines agreed: "The Inn has got to make up its mind which lawn it wants to make into a parking lot." But Chairman Arlan Jordrey said the problem wasn't the Inn's guests or employees so much as the narrowness of the street. The problem could be solved, he said, if the street were broadened.

Nevertheless, Mr. Jordrey told the petitioners, "We'll consider it." Responding to a request from the Affordable Housing Committee that grew out of the Citizens' Conference last fall, the selectmen established an Affordable Housing Committee for the town. It is to consist of seven members and will be

Skier dies after crashing into tree

A Maryland college student died Monday evening at Maine Medical Center, in Portland, of head injuries suffered Sunday in a skiing accident at Sunday River Ski Resort.

It is the first fatality at Sunday River skiway since 1969.

Brian Girouard, 20, of Gaithersburg, Md., was skiing on the upper part of the Lazy River trail about 2:45 p.m. when he skied off the trail and struck a tree approximately 25 feet into the woods, according to Sunday River Skiway Corp. President Les Otten.

Mr. Girouard was a student at William and Mary College, in Williamsburg, Va. He was part of a group of 45 students and chaperones from that college who came to Bethel to ski this week.

Tuesday, a second member of the group was seriously injured. John Swanson was admitted to Central Maine Medical Center, in Lewiston, last night with head injuries. The nursing supervisor said he was in the intensive care unit in "guarded condition."

The remainder of the William and Mary group met last night at the Sudbury Inn to be told about the death of Mr. Girouard.

At the time of the fatal accident, Mr. Otten said, the young man was finishing a group lesson with eight other William and Mary students.

Mr. Otten described Mr. Girouard as a "solid intermediate skier, maybe better."

Just prior to the accident the ski instructor had stopped the class in an open area 120 feet above where Mr. Girouard later went into the woods. The instructor then skied down to another open area to wait for the students to follow.

The skiers followed, with Mr. Girouard

W'stack selectmen say they will not give up attempts to collect fine

The Woodstock Board of Selectmen has indicated it will pursue attempts to collect a fine levied on a Washington, D.C. man for alleged septic system violations on Maguer's Island in Lake Christopher.

First Selectman George Hooper said, however, that the board is uncertain how to go about collecting the fine.

"We're just hanging," he said. "We're not sure who pursues it. Whether it's the selectmen, the code enforcement officer or an attorney."

At a selectmen's meeting on Feb. 2, with Mr. Hooper and selectman Ethel Davis present, Town Manager Kathleen Mersereau said the town's attorney had advised against attempting to collect the fine, saying such an attempt would be expensive and probably futile.

The selectmen took no formal action on the advice at that meeting, but they appeared reluctantly resigned to letting the matter drop.

The topic came up again at subsequent meetings, however, and Selectman Gary Wing (who had missed the Feb. 2 meeting due to illness) expressed vehement opposition to dropping the fine.

Referring to the cost of pursuing the case in the courts, Mr. Wing said, "We're not in business to make a profit. We're

Col. Larry S. Cummings

Locke Mills native appointed head of Maine Warden Service

Fish and Wildlife Commissioner William Vail has announced the promotion of Major Larry S. Cummings to the post of chief of the Maine Warden Service. The appointment also includes a promotion to the rank of colonel.

Col. Cummings, 46, has been serving as deputy chief warden since June 1986. He replaces John Marsh, who retired from service on Feb. 12.

Prior to becoming deputy chief, Col. Cummings served as supervisor of Warden Division B, headquartered in Augusta.

Col. Cummings joined the Maine Warden Service in 1967, following employment with the Maine Highway Commission, Bridge Division.

His warden district assignments include Topsheld, Wesley and Turner. He was promoted to warden sergeant in 1974 and stationed in Madison. In 1982, he was promoted to lieutenant and assigned to the Division C headquarters in Bangor, transferring to Division B in Augusta in February 1986.

Col. Cummings is a native of Locke Mills, and a graduate of Gould Academy. He served four years in the U.S. Air Force.

He is married to the former Melvina Learned, of Newry. They reside in Madison with their daughters, Amy, Emily and Sarah.

Greenwood Fire Dept. eyes new pumper/tanker

Hoping to replace an aged and unreliable tank truck that serves as their main mobile water supply, the Greenwood Fire Department will ask voters at Town Meeting for permission to spend $97,500 for a new pumper/tanker.

The new truck would replace a rebuilt U.S. Army 6x6 with a 1,300-gallon capacity, Truck Committee Chairman Med Barton said.

"The old truck has served us well, but it's just worn out," he said. "The transmission is shot, and the starter and electrical system are on their last legs. You usually have to boost the truck to get it started, so it really slows us up getting to fires."

"And it's getting impossible to find

Hello-Goodbye to Thurston mill

The important news this week is that the former Hanover Dowel Mill—closed since last November—will re-open as the J.A. Thurston mill. However, it will not remain a mill for very long. The Thurston family plans to use the Bethel facility only until their Rumford mill is re-built. (It was partially destroyed in a fire last month.)

David ("Fuzzy") Thurston said he expects to have the Rumford mill fully operational by June. He further said he is open to offers and suggestions as to what the family might do with the 10-acre Hanover Dowel property afterwards.

This is an invitation that local developers, local officials, planners and Chamber of Commerce directors should take him up on.

It is clear to most everyone that the land at the intersection of Cross and Bridge streets is now too valuable a piece of property to continue as a mill. What would its best alternative use be? That is the question. And now is the time for people to begin discussing it.

A mall for shops and restaurants? A fast-food outlet (or two or three)? A subsidized housing project? A quad movie theater to fill the gap between Rumford and Auburn?

If interested citizens can arrive at a consensus as to what the best use of the property would be, the next step would be to talk with developers who can make it happen. The town office is well able to offer incentives to an outfit that would use the property as town residents see fit.

But June is approaching rapidly, and now is the time to decide what the town needs at that site. The Thurstons should be taken up on their gracious offer to discuss options with interested parties. bfw

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

At a recent meeting of the Bethel Recycling Committee and the SAD #44 Area Recycling Committee much thought and talk went into a discussion of how to prolong the life of the dump. Recycling could be an answer.

The Bethel committee is an outgrowth of the future seminar held last fall, a joint venture of SAD #44 and N.T.L.

At the most recent meeting, Fergus Lea, of A.V.C.O.G., was present and had advice for the committee. Basically, he advised to start slow, find out how the town would or should handle its solid waste and to get the committee recognized by the selectmen.

Unfortunately, without official recognition the committee is just spinning its wheels, he said.

The next meeting is to be Thursday, March 10, at 7:30 p.m. at the Newry Town Hall. All are invited.

To the Editor:

We would like to state the fact that there has been certain discrimination in our town due to Dr. Mason's office.

He has refused families on A.F.D.C., using the excuse by saying they can't accept us anymore because we have missed too many appointments, which certainly isn't true.

Hopefully we will have a much better dentist in our town that won't refuse us middle class people.

Shanda and Tammy Waterhouse

Dr. Mason responds that his office is, in fact, one of the few dental offices in the area that accepts A.F.D.C. patients, even though the payments are only about half what he normally charges for children. He says he is "happy to do it" because children should not be made to suffer for things they have no control over. He said he does limit his A.F.D.C. service to children within SAD #44. He says in the case of the two Waterhouse sisters, the reason he discontinued their service is that one missed two appointments and cancelled two others while the other missed three appointments.

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to urge each and every voter of the Town of Greenwood to please attend the March Town Meeting and exercise your right to vote. Like most towns, Greenwood is experiencing growing pains and, I believe, more than ever before needs the help and guidance from its citizens in the shaping of its future. As a selectman, I have heard complaints from citizens on every town subject imaginable. Occasionally I'll ask a complainant if they voted on the subject at the Town Meeting. I'm amazed at how many say, "No, I didn't attend." I personally feel that staying away from a town meeting and then complaining afterwards is like winking at a girl in the dark.

In summary, let your voice be heard through your vote. Please participate in Greenwood's future by attending the March 12 Town Meeting at 10 a.m. in the Greenwood Town Hall.

A note from the publisher

Why is it that governments never like to have the press looking over their shoulders? A few years back it was the U.S. government not allowing the press into Granada during our invasion of that island. This week it's the Israeli government not allowing the press into areas where Palestinians are protesting Israeli rule of the occupied territories.

The only thing that makes a democracy different from any other "cracy" is the right of the people to partake in the free and full exchange of information and ideas. Without an independent and vigilant press, there can be no real democracy.

That said, keep in mind that the state Legislature seems quite set on closing off another source of public information. That is the list of those who are given permits to carry concealed weapons. Seems the legislators don't want the names to be published.

The feeling in the Legislature—as well as among those in power in Washington and Jerusalem—seems to be that what you don't know won't hurt you. But it can kill you.

Although condominium sales have slowed dramatically in recent months, there has been no slowing of the tourist trade. And this has made local innkeepers happy. And also prospective innkeepers.

I understand that The Kings Inn, in Mason, will likely soon be under new ownership and I trust the new owner will do as well with it as present owners Bunney and Mac MacMunn have.

I also hear that a young couple from the Boston area has purchased the Bartholomew place on Rte. 26 in Newry and plans to turn it into a bed and breakfast establishment. It should do well, especially with those hiking in Grafton Notch in the summer.

A new bed and breakfast establishment in Andover—Andover Arms—should also see a lot of summer hikers coming down from the Appalachian Trail. Best of luck to owners Pat and Larry Wymen.

Newry selectmen act on computer purchase

The Newry Board of Selectmen, after consulting with Jonathan Smith, who has been helping them with selecting a computer for doing town books, agreed Tuesday morning to spend the $7,500 appropriated by Town Meeting on a computer, software and training. With the help of Mr. Smith, the selectmen hope to be able to issue this year's tax bills in June from information fed into the computer.

In the future, the selectmen also hope to have the voting list and other town bookkeeping on the computer.

Newly elected Selectman Willard Wright was out of town Tuesday, so Selectmen Roger Hanson and Steve Wright decided to put off making committee appointments until he returns.

Fire Chief Virgil Conkright said the Fire Department Committee would meet March 16, at 7 p.m., to discuss further plans for phase one of forming a fire department. This will involve expenditure of the $25,000 appropriated in 1987 for a building and purchase of a slide-in pumper for the recently acquired pickup truck.

Town Clerk June Swan said there are still many unlicensed dogs in town. Beginning April 1, an extra charge will be made for collection of dog licenses. Also in April the selectmen will prepare a dog warrant for the animal control officer, and any owners not licensing their dogs will be summoned to court.

A special meeting of the Planning Board has been scheduled for March 16, at 7 p.m., at the municipal building.

FRESHMAN BECKY HUNT TOPPLES OUT OF LIMBO COMPETITION. This year's Winter Carnival at Telstar Regional High School featured a week of interclass competitions, culminating in a half-day of athletic events in the school gymnasium. The final events included volleyball, floor hockey, arm wrestling, the limbo and a doughnut-eating contest. Senior Ellen Hastings won the limbo contest, as her class went on to take first place in the carnival competition.

A View of the Olympics

by Ann Morton

The 15th Winter Olympic Games are officially over, but they live on in the minds and hearts of the Olympians and spectators from around the world. The Olympic experience is like none other, which explains why planning began nearly a year ago for our trip to Calgary. The fact that niece Leslie Bancroft Krichko would probably be representing the USA on the nordic ski team caused eight members of her family to clear their calendars and prepare to descend on the Canadian Rockies en masse. Amazingly, the plans jelled, and the week far exceeded all our expectations.

From nordic events in Canmore to downhill skiing at Nakiska to ski jumping, lugeing, and hockey in Calgary, it was an exciting and exhilarating experience. After eight days of non-stop activity, we returned home to hear the negative impressions people had due to television coverage. When we heard people comment that USA athletes were doing poorly, the ski team called "the Amityville Horror," or emphasis on our lack of medals, we were shocked. Our impression while watching the various events in person was one of positive competition between athletes who admired each other's athletic performance even though they did not share the same language or ideology.

Nationalistic pride is wonderful to behold when flags are waved at events or athletes cry as their national anthem is played at an award ceremony. This same pride is flawed when our best athletes are judged by how many medals they win.

A young girl from Paris, Maine, begins nordic skiing as a high school freshman and is state Class A skisier. She dedicates over half of her life to training and maintaining excellent physical health and mental toughness; she represents her country in two Winter Olympic Games. When she enters the stadium in the 10K and 5K races with the fastest time for an American skier, surrounded by the shouts and cheers of her family, friends, and nordic ski lovers from around the world, can anyone measure the value of that experience?

When an athlete does his or her personal best, can we sit by our television set and bemoan the fact that someone did better? A young man watches the television coverage of the 1980 Olympic luge events from his Bethel home and eight years later is one of three Americans in the two luge events in Calgary. Isn't that kind of commitment more important than any medal?

Fifteen blind men and women from around the world compete in a 5K nordic race, following the vocal directions given by their guides. It was called handicapped skiing, but they had overcome their handicaps and had very competitive times in the race. Where were the fans and television cameras?

Each Olympian is a study in dedication and personal courage, an excellent physical specimen and an individual who has set a high goal, earning a chance to represent their country. How can their countrymen devalue that kind of commitment? Do we care so much about a small medal that we forget to pay homage to those athletes who have

NOVA budget up for public review March 22

The citizens of the four area school districts, SAD #21, SAD #43, SAD #44 and Union 25, will have the opportunity to review Vocational Region 9's proposed budget for the 1988-89 school year at two upcoming public hearings. The budget will be presented and questions regarding the proposed expenditures will be answered.

The meetings are scheduled as follows: Tuesday, March 22—Lecture Hall at Telstar Regional High School, 7 p.m.; Tuesday, March 29—Room 24, Mexico High School, 7 p.m. Richard A. Thomas, Vocational Administrator, encourages the residents of the four area school districts to attend one of the hearings.

reached heights most of us can never hope to attain?

We felt the welcoming atmosphere and the warmth of the Canadian people from the moment we stepped off the plane to be cheered, "branded," and presented with a Calgary flag. The 17,000 volunteers who worked for a year to plan and ensure the smooth operation of every aspect of the Olympic Games were proud to welcome visitors to their country. They commented daily on our GOR IT USA hats and LESLIE BANCROFT KRICHO FAN CLUB bibs worn by 10 of us. We carried banners made by students at Telstar and Rumford high schools and another sent out by Oxford Hills High School. These were recognized and photographed by our friends from all over the world. Cheering for all athletes seemed very natural, as we were seeing the world's best perform at every venue. While eating dinner in the Olympic Village, we were impressed by the normalcy of these young athletes when the pressure is off and uniforms are shed in favor of blue jeans and T-shirts.

I particularly enjoyed trading pins with people from all nations. I had quite a few pins on my hat as we stood at the awards ceremony following the women's 5K nordic race. Proudly waving our banners and American flags, we cheered for the Finnish gold medal winner and the Russian silver and bronze medal winners. At the end of the ceremony, a Russian fan tapped me on the shoulder and placed a Russian pin in my hand. Without a word I gave him a Maine pin; we smiled and went our separate ways. This and thousands of other small acts of friendship represent to us the other side of the Olympics—perhaps the most vital side in terms of world peace and understanding between people.

Each Olympian is a study in dedication and personal courage, an excellent physical specimen and an individual who has set a high goal, earning a chance to represent their country. How can their countrymen devalue that kind of commitment? Do we care so much about a small medal that we forget to pay homage to those athletes who have increasingly reluctant to provide housing for Newry.

"We're becoming more and more of a burden to them," Mr. Wight said. "Their administrators have to look to cost and availability—for instance, what are they going to say if a house in Bethel burns down while their equipment is over here?"

Mr. Wight characterized the fire department development proposal (which calls for another $58,000 to be raised next year) as a modest, step-by-step plan for providing necessary protection for the town.

Virgil Conkright, who headed the fire department study committees, noted that after the initial purchases of land and equipment, a Newry Fire Department would cost approximately what the town now pays Bethel for fire protection. The selectman said that in keeping with past practices they would call a special town meeting before actually spending the money raised for the Fire Department Fund.

Discussion on two other warrant articles was also influenced by Newry's increased willingness to provide its own basic services—and by Bethel's increased reluctance.

"They're in the process of cutting the umbilical cord," Phil Taylor said. The voters agreed to raise $35,000 for solid waste disposal (up from $20,000) last year, and they increased from $3,500 to $5,000 the amount to be raised for ambulance service availability.

Mr. Wight said that at the moment there was no realistic alternative to paying the increased cost of using the Bethel landfill, but the selectmen "were hoping in the coming year to hear more exciting news about a recycling and composting plant in Rumford."

Voters increased the amount called for in the ambulance service article in order to cover anticipated increases in securing a replacement for Keegan Ambulance Service, which is going out of business.

"We don't know yet what's going to happen," Mr. Wight said, "but we do know that it's going to cost more."

Fred Burk raised the possibility of again contracting with Bethel for ambulance coverage. "I don't think it would be eating crow," he said.

A number of other voters, however, argued that the quality of the private ambulance service was higher, due largely to the more advanced training of their personnel and the consistency of their staffing.

The selectmen agreed not to preclude the Bethel alternative as they explore options for providing continuing ambulance coverage.

In other action Monday night, voters agreed to raise $7,500 to purchase a computer and training program, and to raise $7,250 for Planning Board salaries and expenses.

Voters turned down requests from the Western Area Agency on Aging ($100), Northeast Combat, Inc. ($25) and the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce ($425), but they doubled, to $200, the amount the selectmen had recommended.

responsible for developing affordable housing strategies, developing strategies to protect senior citizen and low-income housing in town, work with the USM group that will survey affordable housing needs in town (see last week's Citizen), study the results of that survey and report back to the selectmen by Dec. 1, 1988.

The selectmen are looking for volunteers to serve on the committee. Those interested should contact the town office.

A group of citizens also asked the board to consider establishing a conservation commission as a town board. Such a commission would prepare and keep an index of all open areas, publicly or privately owned, for the purpose of using the information for the proper utilization, protection and potential development or use of such areas and would make recommendations to other boards and organizations for better utilization, protection or development of open spaces. The selectmen took the matter under advisement.

The selectmen voted 4-0 (Selectman Arthur Gilbert was absent) to purchase liability insurance for the police department. This will cost $1,832 for the year and will provide coverage of $500,000 liability per person or incident, with $500 deductible. The insurance is being purchased through W.J. Wheeler & Co., Inc.

The selectmen reviewed plans for converting the vacant office on the side of the municipal building into a meeting room. The work would include enlarging the space by removing the vault and toilet in the vacant office and taking over part of the space currently rented to Citizen Press. The room would be completely re-done, with new ceiling, windows, floor, heating fixtures, wiring and insulation. Work is expected to begin this spring. There was no estimate of cost.

The board has still taken no further action on the matter, but Mr. Hooper said the sentiment of the board now clearly favors going ahead with attempts to collect the fine.

Mrs. Mersereau said she has been in touch with Maine Municipal Association to discuss the town's options for moving ahead on the matter.

spare parts for it," Mr. Barton said. "When it breaks down, which is frequently, it usually stays down for too long." Fire Chief "Cubby" Swan said the department hopes to replace the failing tanker with a 1,500-gallon capacity pumper/tanker. In addition to providing a reliable water source, he said, a combined pumper/tanker would be a back-up for the town's lead truck, a 1976 pumper.

That pumper is currently in sound shape, Chief Swan said, but if it does break down the town would need a reliable back-up pumper if it wants to keep its excellent Class-9 fire insurance rating.

Mr. Barton said: "We're looking at a truck that would save homeowners on insurance bills, improve our overall fire-fighting ability and last us 30 to 40 years."

Town Meeting will be this Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m., at the town hall.

on an aquifer, there is not much chance that a new dump site can be found in town.

Voters also approved raising $5,154.60 for ambulance service. The warrant article in question called for raising only $2,683.69, but Selectman Raymond Hutchins explained that the increase was necessary because the ambulance company that had been providing service for the town had gone out of business, and the temporary (one year) coverage arrangement worked out by the selectmen would be more costly.

In all, voters approved raising approximately 16 percent more money than in the previous year, Mr. Hutchins said, but this would probably not lead to an increase in the current $20.50 mill rate.

In elections following the meeting, Mr. Hutchins was re-elected to a three-year term as selectman. Wilbur Cheney was re-elected road commissioner; Ken Dixon was re-elected fire chief, and Kathy Williamson was re-elected town clerk and tax collector. Al Legault was elected treasurer.

Betsy White was elected to a seat on the SAD #44 Board of Directors. She will replace Darline Hall, who has retired from the board.

to the rear of the group. Apparently no one in the group saw him leave the trail, but the instructor waiting below caught a glimpse of a skier in the woods and skied down to send for help.

The ski patrol was at the scene within three to four minutes, Mr. Otten said, and immediately began administering oxygen and heart-lung resuscitation.

The injured man was taken down the mountain on a back-board and transported to Rumford Community Hospital, where he was stabilized for the trip to Maine Medical Center.

He died there of his injuries at approximately 9:30 Monday night.

Investigators from the State Police and the Sunday River staff were able to trace the tracks of Mr. Girouard's skis back to the group's last stopping place.

"For the final 15 feet before they went into the woods, the tracks were straight and smooth," Mr. Otten said. "It makes no sense at all—there's nothing to indicate why he went into the woods."

Senior citizens spend two nights in wilderness as part of Elderhostel

Sunday River Inn attracted national attention last week as the site of the world's first-ever Outward Bound Elderhostel course.

The eight participants in the program ranged in age from 60 to 71 and probably represented the oldest average age of any Outward Bound course ever taught in the more than 45 years the organization has been operating around the world, according to Elderhostel host Steve Wight, of Sunday River Inn.

The four women and four men in the course solved initiation games in the snow at five degrees below zero, learned techniques of cross country skiing, snowshoeing, winter camping, wilderness first aid, mountain climbing and dressing for cold weather. They ice climbed on frozen waterfalls in Grafton Notch, camped out in simple shelters during two nights of 10 degree below zero weather, soloed at the top of Bald Mountain in Newry and learned to depend upon each other.

The course taught the participants a great deal about themselves and about Outward Bound. It also taught the Outward Bound staff a great deal about dealing with older populations. The historic experience was conceived by Mr. Wight and Jeff Parsons, of Hurricane Island Outward Bound School. The course was taught by Saranne Taylor and Scott McGovern, of Outward Bound.

Much interest was shown in the course by Elderhostel's national office in Boston and Hurricane Island Outward Bound School's administration in Rockland. Officials of both groups hope the model will be used for more courses in the future bringing the Outward Bound experience to older populations.

By VIVA WHITMAN

Another week gone by and I thought by this time that I would be feeling great, but no such luck. Had to go and get a devilish cold that has felt more like pneumonia than just a cold and it sure has had me down. Running a temp each night can make one feel lousy as well as coughing till you see stars and your chest feels as though it was being torn apart. Got Peggy to start pounding my back the other night, as when one has pneumonia, and it has helped some, I think. Still don't feel like running any races so guess I won't. Just hope others are well and healthy.

Came home a week ago today and came on with the cold on Friday. Didn't waste any time, you see. Left it up to Russell and Peggy to get groceries and do errands. Had to have Peggy make an extra trip to go get medication for me. Seems as though there is always something. If I get one thing wrong, something else has to crop up, also. That's the way my life goes.

Been watching the gray squirrels out back at the feeder. Russell built a new feeder thinking the squirrels would like it, and they do. They have also been trying lately to get to the bird feeder. Saw one on top of it yesterday but he couldn't get down to the feed no matter how he tried. What antics they will go through. We haven't had many different kinds of birds this winter but have had lots of chickadees and one especially large woodpecker who likes to light on the bird feeder and eat. He works at one of the holes and gets the sunflower seeds to fall into the plate, then sits there and eats to his heart's content. He is really a large fellow. The chickadees come to eat at the same time most of the time but once in a while they fly around hoping he will leave so they can have the feeder to themselves.

Russell and Peggy went to the dance at Locke Mills last Saturday night. Guess from all they said that they had a good time.

Had heard from Laura Hutchins, our sister in East Andover, on Friday, I think, that she had taken a fall and broken her right wrist. Always something to make life interesting, right?

Guess I was wrong and it was Thursday that Laura called that she had had the accident. She had been going to come to see me at the hospital but I had come home in the forenoon. Just not thinking as clearly as I should.

Hilda Taylor was in one evening with Avon books for us to look at, but I don't dare say what evening it was. Also had a call from Joyce Hoyt, of Bryant Pond, the other day. It was nice to see her and she brought a get well card. Of course, I can't forget the call from the Rawleigh man the other day. Hadn't seen him for some time and it was good to see him even if I didn't feel good. We've known him for so many years that he is an old friend.

Forgot to say last week that Iva Lang was in the room with me at the hospital. She was with me until Sunday morning when she went home; and Sunday afternoon Agnes Gibbs was moved in. I liked both ladies very much and hope they didn't mind having me as a roommate. I can't have flowers and things like most folks can, but that's not my fault—just my misfortune. My foster daughter brought me a basket with silk flowers in it and they will last much longer than real flowers would. I have them sitting on the TV where I can enjoy them for a long, long time to come. I remember when so many allergies were found in my system and I was in a hospital at that time. I felt bad for the lady in the room with me but she said she didn't care at all. She was enjoying the dried flower arrangements friends were bringing in to her and she could enjoy them lots longer than cut flowers. So you see, it's not all bad if folks will look at the situation right. I can have the dried flowers around as long as they haven't had a mess of perfume poured on them, and they are so pretty when made up into nice arrangements.

Two weeks from tonight, March 17, West Paris Grange will be celebrating their 100th anniversary, and I believe the meeting will be open to the public. I will have more information on that next week. They are hoping to have some of the State Grange officers there and a

Gould students engage in annual 'Four Points'

Students and faculty at Gould Academy began the school's annual Four Point program last week. The program, now in its fourth year, requires each class to engage in a specific eight-day project or adventure involving topics or experiences not covered in the normal school curriculum.

A new "point" this year involves the 40 students in the sophomore class with a group of volunteers called "Habitat for Humanity." They and seven faculty advisors have travelled to Connecticut to embark in initial construction and reconstruction of housing for homeless and low-income families.

"Habitat for Humanity" functions internationally and expects to be operating in 2,000 United States cities and in 60 foreign countries by the year 1996. It is operated through local affiliates. The Gould Four Point group will work alongside trained carpenters and builders in an attempt to make a personal contribution to society. They will sleep in church basements, prepare their own meals, and work on construction sites in Bridgeport and New London, Conn.

The other points of the program involve the junior class with an Outward Bound winter course, a freshman class trip to Washington, D.C. and a senior point with the National Training Laboratory (NTL) of Bethel and Washington, D.C.

good program for all to enjoy. Meetings usually start at 7:30 and I presume that one will. But as I said, I will have more information in next week's writing.

Take care one and all and don't get this darn cold or influenza as I have. It doesn't make one feel too well.

Gould students engage in annual 'Four Points'

Students and faculty at Gould Academy began the school's annual Four Point program last week. The program, now in its fourth year, requires each class to engage in a specific eight-day project or adventure involving topics or experiences not covered in the normal school curriculum.

A new "point" this year involves the 40 students in the sophomore class with a group of volunteers called "Habitat for Humanity." They and seven faculty advisors have traveled to Connecticut to embark in initial construction and reconstruction of housing for homeless and low-income families.

"Habitat for Humanity" functions internationally and expects to be operating in 2,000 United States cities and in 60 foreign countries by the year 1996. It is operated through local affiliates. The Gould Four Point group will work alongside trained carpenters and builders in an attempt to make a personal contribution to society. They will sleep in church basements, prepare their own meals, and work on construction sites in Bridgeport and New London, Conn.

The other points of the program involve the junior class with an Outward Bound winter course, a freshman class trip to Washington, D.C. and a senior point with the National Training Laboratory (NTL) of Bethel and Washington, D.C.

good program for all to enjoy. Meetings usually start at 7:30 and I presume that one will. But as I said, I will have more information in next week's writing.

Take care one and all and don't get this darn cold or influenza as I have. It doesn't make one feel too well.

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program will offer several courses relating to the world of work during the spring term. Such courses include Typing, Computer Uses, and Accounting, which will meet on Monday, Thursday and Wednesday evenings respectively, at Telstar High School in Bethel.

The Typing course will be taught by Cheryl Lord of the Telstar High School Business Department and will cover keyboarding skills for speed and accuracy, as well as instruction on how to set up basic office documents. The course is open to beginners and to those whose skills are rusty or who are unfamiliar with modern office equipment.

Computer Uses will be taught by Holly Sysko, who has instructed beginning computer courses for SAD #44 Adult and Community Education for the past three terms. The course will cover the use of personal computers for such tasks as spreadsheets, word processing, and file management. The course will be taught on Apple IIe machines using Appleworks. Some exposure to other software will be included. The course is designed for beginning students.

Merle Ring, who has taught income tax classes for SAD #44 Adult Education for many years, will teach beginning Accounting this spring. The course covers the accounting cycle in its basic form and is helpful to those who work in a small office or home-based business.

All three courses are eligible for one-half credit for adult education diploma students, but may be taken by those who are not enrolled in the diploma program as well.

Hobbyist courses on tap in Adult Ed programs

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program will offer several skill classes during the Spring term, many starting during the week of March 14. These include courses in Color Photography, Woodworking, Bridge, Rug Braiding, Basketry and Stained Glass.

Color Photography will be taught at Telstar High School on Tuesdays, 7-9 p.m., starting March 15; instructor is Tim Mills. This course is for the person who has 35mm camera equipment but who has yet to use it to its full potential, as well as for the more experienced individual who enjoys learning new techniques. Several group photo outings will be scheduled.

Woodworking is a perennial favorite in SAD #44 Adult and Community Education. Telstar's Tim O'Connor is the instructor for this Thursday night class, which will cover the safe use of hand and power tools in the shop. Students will be allowed to work on projects of their choice. The class will run for three hours each night, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

"Spinning" returns to the line-up after an absence of several terms. Sue Laban, of Laban Sheep Farm, in Bethel, will teach this class on Mondays, 7-9 p.m. The afternoon Beginning Bridge sessions, under the direction of Sig Sysko, will continue at the Bethel House on Main Street. These will be held on Wednesday afternoons, 2-4 p.m.

Two sections of Rug Braiding will be available—one by Sally Rollinson at the Hammons House on Broad Street in Bethel (Tuesdays 1-3 p.m.), and the other at the Woodstock School (Monday nights, 7-9 p.m.) with Bessie Giddings. Both will feature wool, laced braided rugs.

Basketry will be offered at two locations on Wednesday: at Telstar, with Jan Todd, and at Andover School, with Patty Brown and Lana Fyrberg. Both classes will include two or more different baskets and will run from 7 to 9 p.m. Stained Glass is back by request and will be taught by Robin Fraser at Telstar High School on Thursdays, 7-9 p.m. This class will include practice with lead and

Gould students visiting in Costa Rican schools

Three students and two Gould Academy faculty members left March 3 for a three-week visit to Costa Rica. This trip is the second phase of the Gould Academy Costa Rican Exchange Program established this year.

Four Costa Ricans—three students and one faculty member—spent three weeks at Gould in February. The Costa Ricans found it difficult adjusting to the cold weather and snow—something unknown in their country. The Gould travelers are looking forward to the warm climate of Costa Rica.

The Gould students are Beth Hill, a senior from Bethel; Todd Kim, a junior from East Rumford; and Heather Sparks, a senior from Brookline, Mass.

Beth will live in the town of Guapiles, located on the Caribbean coast, two hours from the Costa Rican capital, San Jose. Guapiles is located on the eastern plain where bananas are cultivated. The school that Beth will be visiting is a cooperative high school that owns many acres of land, which are farmed by the students. Like all the Gould students, Beth will live with a Costa Rican family and will be involved in the school and rural life.

Todd will live in Zarcero, located in the fertile central valley of Costa Rica, 1½ hours from San Jose. The school he will be attending is the only agro-industrial high school in Costa Rica. As at other schools, the land is owned by the school and worked by the students. Canned fruits and vegetables are the principal products. The academic side of school stresses sciences, including botany, animal husbandry and food preservation and preparation.

Heather will be staying in Sarchi, also located in the central valley, one hour from San Jose. Sarchi is considered the arts and crafts center of Costa Rica and this is reflected in the school curriculum.

By the third year students have selected one "specialty" such as woodworking, ceramics, painting or iron work.

The two Gould faculty members are Blake Johnson, a Spanish teacher, and Dr. Marvin Ousinga, who teaches Latin and ancient history. They will be the "tourists" of the group, traveling to all three towns to check on the students and also spending three days in San Jose. The exchange program developed out of a need to know more about Central America, to improve Spanish speaking skills and to initiate a people-to-people dialogue to promote understanding and knowledge. The funds for the program

Ginny and Don Walker

Bethel

Friends and relatives joined with Don and Ginny Walker in celebration of their 40th wedding anniversary Feb. 21, at an open house at the home of Sheila and Arthur Head, West Bethel.

The Walkers received flowers, gifts, cards and several phone calls.

Refreshments were served, including an anniversary cake. Decorations were in red and white.

Assisting with the party were Fred and Aimee Bauer, Melissa Walker, Mabel and Richard Walker, Diana Walker and Arthur and Ruth Gilbert.

While Gary Inman was surveying for Dana Douglass last week in the woods between Grover Hill and Rte. 2, along the brook, he noticed a yellow something or other on the ground and snowshoed over to it. Upon closer inspection, he saw it was a deflated balloon, which had apparently ripped as it made its way through the trees. Attached to the balloon was a packet with the name and address of an elementary school student.

The student's name, so far as he could make out, was Lucie Bubbinis. She is a student at Princess Elizabeth Elementary School, in Magog, Quebec. Her writing didn't say when the balloon was launched or why. Nevertheless, Gary plans to write to her and tell her he found her balloon in Bethel. He will also put together a packet of information on Bethel and send that along with his note.

On Sunday, March 6, Heather Roberts

Dance meets are held each month throughout the dance season, with most for teachers only.

Greenwood City

By COLISTA MORGAN

Just when we think that spring is arriving another snowstorm comes to jolt us back into winter. The last one fell powder soft. Everything was crazy white. Although a radiant sun shone today, the wind was rising when I went out. Great swirls of snow blew off the evergreens, spiraled up, and became a gauzy cloud. It blinded my eyes and stung my face.

I got my shovel and started to dig a path. It was a season that I hoped was over, but I knew better. It gave me a droll sense of time lag.

By afternoon a tractor came in and burst through, pushing bladeful after bladeful of snow into a mighty pile.

Since then there have been many good days which I enjoyed. One of those spring-like days, at eight o'clock, a gray squirrel sat nibbling on a giant something halfway down the back yard. It seemed to me to be a brown-biscuit toadstool. He scampered up the maple tree with his treacher. Around and around the "something" he nibbled holding his delicacy against his chest. He nibbled and shifted, nibbled and shifted. Chickadees played among the sun-drenched branches. Meantime squirrel went nibble, shift. Then suddenly he darted up the tree again, leaping onto a branch of a neighboring tree. He then disappeared into the deep woods.

I found myself thinking in terms of the past as I watched here alone. Memories. They linger in hidden remoteness, and may bring a sudden unbidden bit of laughter or a few tears to some ordinary moment. At this moment I found myself remembering that squirrel. I was shifting and nibbling at the past.

It had to do with my husband—his clearing of this land and then the building of our house in which we lived for years. And the part that nature had played in our daily lives. I realized the pattern that had threaded so goldenly through all those days.

I went to work for a time then returned home.

Surely the trees are clapping their hands and the hills are singing with the coming of spring. Winter's days are so nearly done even though the winds bite and claw. Now I see the painting of hope, a slope of arbutus, the pastel of violets, the vast green canopy of trees. This is the time to dream!

The fishermen and the snowmobilers are enjoying all these good days out on the pond.

My brother, Fred Curtis, his wife, Rena, and I went to Poland on Thursday afternoon to visit our brother, Ernest.

After eight weeks of having Sola Keratosis it is a big relief to be cured and

Rotary Club half way to its fundraising goal

The Bethel Rotary Club's recent flurry of fundraising activities has brought to $7,500 the total raised for the upcoming two-week trip to Mijas, Spain, of 20 Bethel area students. The total represents the halfway point in the program's goal of $15,000.

The students, aged 12-14, will be leaving from Bethel on Monday, June 20, and will return on Monday, July 4. Their Spanish hosts will be teaching them about their culture, giving them a tour of the scenic Mediterranean coastal area and, most importantly, allowing the youth to interact with each other.

The exchange students and the Bethel Rotary Club wish to thank all those businesses and individuals who have contributed generously to this tremendous project. The club offers special thanks to Bethel Furniture Stock, Rose Summer, Julie Daye, Casco Bank, Bethel IGA, Mt. Abram Ski Slopes, Sunday River Ski Resort, Bethel Inn, P.H. Chadbourne and Western Maine Supply for their help in the recent Disney World raffle, which raised $3,200 for the program.

Springtime fundraisers will include more bottle drives, a car wash and a bike-a-thon, among others. The Rotary Club and adult chaperones are busy working out travel plans to make sure the trip is as trouble free as possible. Anyone wishing to help out can contact Steve Wight, at 824-2410, or Dave Preble, at 824-2820.

Notes from the Woodstock Historical Society

Here is a comment on Maine artist, Winslow Homer—

"He saw things in American life that no other artist had seen, and he painted them in new ways. He spoke equally to the artist and the layman, by his pictures of stirring aspects of nature and humanity, by the freshness of his vision, and by his high degree of artistry." Lloyd Goodrich

Friends of Androscoggin membership now at 39

The Friends of the Androscoggin met Feb. 2 at Telstar Regional High School in Bethel. The group, which was formally established earlier this year, now has 39 members in four states and England. Friends Chairman Steve Wight conducted the meeting.

Dr. Chris Glenney, of Berlin, N.H., was invited to the meeting by Lennie Shaw to report on river-related happenings in the Berlin area. Dr. Glenney conducted a series of public meetings last fall in towns along the New Hampshire section of the Androscoggin as part of the New Hampshire Rivers Campaign.

Ernest and Alberta Angevine commented on their experiences as residents on the Northwest Bethel section of the river. They echoed a concern shared by many Friends regarding respect for landowner's rights and sensitivities by people using the river for recreation. They also reported on fish and birds they have observed over the years.

Reports were given on progress relating to the carry-in boat launch sites the Friends hope to develop in cooperation with the Maine Bureau of Parks and Recreation. The group hopes to develop three sites spaced along the river from Gilead to Hanover, to allow for put-in and take-out of canoes and small motorboats. State Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel) and Steve Wight are in contact with landowners on this matter.

Bernie Michaud reported on the February meeting of the Greenway subcommittee. The group met at the Bethel Town Office and studied the new tax maps. They plan to do an inventory of the river as it exists now, gathering data on land ownership.

Mike Witter volunteered to visit the Soil Conservation District in South Paris to see what maps and data are available from them. A future program featuring studies that have been done on such issues as water quality and land use was suggested.

Steve Keane's OSIC class at Telstar would like to undertake a river-related service project this spring. They are planning to remove two submerged vehicles from the river, and would like help from interested Friends members and others. Anyone interested in helping the Telstar students is asked to call the SAD #4 Adult Education office, 824-2780. The next meeting of the Friends of the

Aghes Gray School

By MARTA CLEMENTS

Another busy and exciting week has passed. Mrs. Pam Stock and her resource room students have been celebrating Dr. Seuss Week. His birthday was this past Wednesday. Many Dr. Seuss stories have been read, a movie seen, CAT IN THE HAT buttons made, and Dr. Seuss-like tongue-twisters written.

The activities kicked off with a mystery picture to identify. Samantha Casteel discovered the identity of Dr. Seuss and won a prize for doing so. Festivities ended with a birthday party. It was a wonderful week. A special thank-you to Books 'N Things, of Oxford, for supplying some Dr. Seuss balloons.

Grade 2 is preparing for their upcoming trip to the Norlands. They are learning how people in Maine lived long ago. Their activities have included drying apples, greasing boots and a trip to the cemetery, where gravestone rubbing gave them a variety of information on the past.

Grade 3 is in the middle of their dinosaur unit and is practicing dinosaur songs. We are all looking forward to their dinosaur parade. The 3rd graders are also scheduled for time on the computer and are learning to type with the Sticky Bear typing program. The Sticky Bear Thump game is one of the choices to play. A typist has to be fast and accurate to win.

Mr. Tim Berger visited the 5th grade this week. He presents a variety of programs concerning drug abuse prevention. Contributions from area businesses make his programs possible. He showed a movie and then talked with students about the danger associated with drug and alcohol abuse. His emphasis was on respecting oneself, having the confidence and self-esteem to say NO!

Mrs. Merrill's Artist of the Week for Feb. 26 was Jonathan Haas, Grade 4, for his rendition of "unbalance" in an art work. Katie Buehl, Grade 3, was the Artist of the Week for March 4, for her paper on weaving.

The 6th-graders are producing a book on inventions. This stems from a creative writing class. The inventions will be described and drawn. No doubt they will be quite interesting!

QUILTING CLASSES OFFERED

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education will offer two different approaches to quilting during the Spring term.

Machine Quilting will be taught by Donna McCarragher, of Waterford, at Telstar High School on Thursday nights. Students will complete a full-sized quilt in the Amish Roman Stripe pattern sewn completely by machine. A detailed materials list will be distributed at the first class, and students will work on their quilts through weekly assignments following lecture-demonstrations by Mrs. McCarragher.

In contrast to the machine sewing method, Catherine Calef will offer a class in hand-piecing and quilting using applique patterns such as Stained Glass, Celtic, and Hawaiian. A basic knowledge of hand-quilting is required for this class, which will meet on Tuesday mornings at the Bethel Library from 9:30 to 11:30.

Mrs. Calef is a veteran teacher in area adult education programs and is a member of several regional quilt associations. Her students have produced products of exceptional quality in past terms, and have frequently displayed their products at the Bethel Library.

To enroll in these classes, or in any of the 46 other programs sponsored by SAD #44 Adult and Community Education, call the office, at 824-2780.

outing for the Kindergarten and Grade 1. They visited Moose Crossing, a sheep farm owned by Mr. and Mrs. Allan Gass, of South Paris. The children saw the sheep and nursery with 16 newborn lambs. Some children took turns giving a baby lamb a bottle. Then everyone went inside and Mrs. Gass gave each child a little bag of gray, brown, sapphire and red wool to take home, after she had shown them how to spin wool with a spinning wheel. The children rubbed wool in to yarn on their knees.

Volunteer mothers from Mrs. Brown's Kindergarten were: Mrs. Bean, Mrs. Moody, Mrs. Gravier and Mrs. Stone. Volunteers from Grade 1 were: Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Glasgow, Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Bonney and Mrs. Herrick.

Warren Parsons is visiting his parents, Jack and Eleanor Parsons, since returning from spending some time in Alaska. Mrs. Ethel Bean Turner and son, Jonathan, of Otisfield, were recent visitors here.

Mrs. Lillian Kimball, of South Paris, spent the day last Sunday with her sister, Mrs. Evelyn Kimball.

Mrs. Winona Verrill of South Paris was a visitor Monday afternoon of Mrs. Elmira Doyen.

William Bancroft has been confined to the house this week with a flu bug.

Donna McAllister and two children, of Norway, were Sunday morning visitors of Bill and Phyllis Bancroft. Mrs. Grace Morrill also called there.

A car rolled over in the snowstorm Friday morning near the Bancroft home.

Patience is the ability to idle your motor when you feel like stripping the gears.

PARENTING COURSE STARTS

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program will sponsor a course entitled "Systematic Training for Effective Parenting", taught by Lorrie Hoeh on Wednesday evenings, starting March 16, at Telstar High School, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The course is designed for the parents of pre-school through middle-school-aged children and emphasizes practical suggestions for dealing with discipline, creative activities, communication, and developmental stages of childhood.

The STEP program is nationally recognized, and Mrs. Hoeh has been teaching a session of STEP-Teen this winter through the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program.

The cost of the course is $35 per family, and includes the book. Scholarship money is available for anyone for whom the fee would be a barrier to participation. To enroll, call the adult education office, 824-2780.

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE R. DAVIS

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews called on Olive Davis Friday afternoon. Arthur did several odd jobs for his old aunt. Which was nice of him. He is good help. Thanks Arthur.

Barbara Felt had a birthday last week. I was up and called there and she was real happy with all her cards that she received.

Many are inquiring for Richard. Since he hurt his back he hasn't been able to go back in the woods to work. He is better, however, and is out around some. He came to our Grange meeting the 15th and does light work, like playing again for dances.

Lettie Brooks took Olive Davis to Dr. Tchao at Lewiston on Wednesday morning for a checkup.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks and Olive Davis attended Oxford Pomona at South Paris, Tuesday night.

Mrs. Marta Clements was in Belfast a few days last week visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thompson.

Edith Deegan went to Florida Thursday where she will visit a friend while on a week's vacation.

Marta Clements, Mary Mielon and Jan Peaslee were in Portland one night last week where they attended the Ice Capades.

Vacation week, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway had their daughter, Jane Niro and her two children, from Massachusetts, visiting them. The children's names are Michella and Diana.

Joyce Hathaway's mother and father from Oxford, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Tyler, were callers at the Hathaway home also.

Olive and Esther Davis were in Bridgton this Monday calling on Lillian Harmon and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur

"Ideas for Today's Investor" is the title of a course scheduled to begin on March 15, sponsored by the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program.

Emile L. Clavet, portfolio manager for Advest, Inc., in Lewiston, is the instructor for the six-week class, which will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. at Telstar Regional High School. Mr. Clavet has taught similar courses for Lewiston and Oxford Hills adult education programs and will begin with an overview of financial planning and include such topics as stocks, bonds, mutual funds, tax-free and tax-deferred fixed income investments. Retirement strategies will also be discussed.

To enroll in the Investment course, or any of the other 45 SAD #44 Adult and Community Education programs, call the office at 824-2780.

The Willing Workers met Tuesday night at Mrs. Miriam Morgan's with 11 in attendance. They will have another meeting on April 5 at Esther Davis' trailer. Anyone is welcome to come who is interested in our Community Club.

They will be having a bottle drive on Sunday from 9-12 and may be calling on you for bottles. If you have some and aren't going to be home we would be pleased if you would drop them off at the church or at Miriam Morgan's house. Thank you. This is to be on March 20.

By DIXIE INMAN

Two students' names were drawn on Friday, Feb. 26, for the student of the week. The first drawing was postponed due to a snowstorm. The winners were Katie Putnam and Michelle McInnis, both girls in Grade 2, with Mrs. Shirley Seames. This was a wonderful surprise as it also was Mrs. Seames' birthday.

Mrs. Shimamura's Grade 1 had a great trip to the Maine Aquarium in Saco. It was a wonderful learning experience for all of us. The tidal pools held several different kinds of sea creatures that the students enjoyed holding and watching.

The seals put on a show that brought laughter to our children. These 29 students were the best group of children, they used their manners and were on their best behavior. I was so proud to be a part of this trip and to watch our children give the best representation of our school. You children are proud of yourselves and should be proud of you to Woodstock School grade sent their music concert March 10, at 7 p.m. in the room. THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

March means mud season, and mud season means change. Snow retreats by inches, grudgingly, hanging on in plow-packed ridges. Frost heaves make the roads slouch everywhere they go, like shoulders of someone who's reached their limit and makes ready to throw off the load. The light grows. You find yourself fetching sunglasses in the morning and eating supper in twilight again, fidgeting, banking on spring.

Lent, the ancient Christian season of repentance, goes hand in glove with mud season. Neither are very pretty on the surface, but both hold a deeper beauty: the honesty of waiting on change. Both seasons give us a chance to watch the sun melt our backyards dry and expose everything we've left broken and unfinished, and to know we can't do a blessed thing about it until the ground will hold us again.

I'm thinking less of earth than I am of our spiritual ground. I'm thinking of how tough it is to stand fast when my head and heart shift so constantly, minute by minute. Certainly there are days when it all seems sure to me. Many days I feel comfortable in my habits, my desires, my religion. But then come Lenten days, muddy and insecure, when the Spirit drives me out into the wilderness of self-examination. Lent reveals everything that's merely mine alone to be so much sinking sand.

Waiting on changes, waiting for our truer unshakable self to be revealed: this is an experience both fearful and faithful. In faith, we learn that the more we let Lenten changes happen, the more we grow to appreciate Christ, our solid rock. Lent is the way we learn to stand beyond ourselves, beyond sin and death, within the promises of God. God gives all seasons in their turn, on earth and in our souls. Wait on their turning, and rejoice!

By GLADYS KILGORE

Much sympathy is extended to the friends and neighbors, also his family, on the death of Peter Lombard, who passed away at the nursing home in South Paris. His home will be the sixth one closed in this small town.

Mrs. Frances Grant had to go to a doctor one day for treatment on her toe that has been quite sore for the past week. Mrs. Grace Nelson attended the Republican caucus on the North Lovell Road. Ralph Bronen was chosen as chairman of the Town Committee. Several from here attended the Republican dinner at Bethel one evening. Dale Bronen is in the hospital for treatment.

My niece, Henrietta Lovejoy, called on me Sunday morning. She was on her way at her camp on Five Kezars at North Waterford.

The Past Chiefs Club met at the home of Mrs. Merice Barker Tuesday night. Several from here went to the Senior Citizens meeting held at the North Waterford church vestry Wednesday. A nice dinner was served at noon. After the meeting, Mrs. Mary Grover, of this town, and others gave a talk on the R.S.V.P. program. Slides were shown on the same subject. Everyone enjoyed a pleasant day.

Helen and Mary Grover went to Norway shopping Thursday.

Mrs. Edith Holt, of North Waterford, visited Mrs. Grace Nelson Wednesday evening.

Brenda Files had a large load of wood delivered to her Friday. She works at Evergreen Valley.

Shelley Hutchins & James Pendleton

MISS HUTCHINS TO WED

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hutchins, of East Andover, are proud to announce the engagement of their daughter, Shelley Marie, to James Warren Pendleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Pendleton, of Lincolnville. The bride-to-be is a 1985 graduate of Telstar Regional High School. She is now attending the University of Maine at Farmington. She is working towards a degree in Elementary Education.

The prospective groom is a 1981 graduate of Camden-Hockport High School. He attended Unity College and received a B.S. in Outdoor Recreation. He also attended the University of Maine at Farmington and received a B.S. in Rehabilitation. He is now enlisted in the United States Army for Physical Therapy training. A December wedding is planned.

WALKING WITH JESUS CHRIST

It was Christ who said in the Book of Matthew Chapter 7, Verses 21-23—"not everyone who calls me, 'Lord, Lord' will enter the kingdom of heaven." The commentary of Matthew Henry says "that an outward expression of religion, however remarkable will not bring us to heaven—that oft times prayers are a formality—having no substance—standing as of brass and tinkling cymbals—a form of godliness without power. It is in God's will that we believe in Christ, that we repent of sin, love a holy life and love one another. If we comply not with the will of God—we mock Christ in calling Him 'Lord', as did those who put on Him a gorgeous robe, and said 'Hail, King of the Jews'."

Further in Matthew's Gospel—"Did we not prophesy in your name—cast out demons and in your name perform many great signs?"—Which even Judas Iscariot did—but turned away! Heaven is not their home, for their abode is hell, the place of everlasting punishment.

Matthew Henry further states—"A man may be a preacher—many gifts for the ministry and an external call to it, and perhaps some success in it and yet be a wicked man, may help others to heaven and yet come short himself!" We came to God by His grace—quicken in Jesus Christ—for by grace are we saved—not of ourselves—"Grace will not operate without repentance—"Born Again"—regeneration—from the old to the new—grace rules out human merit—it is faith in Jesus Christ as our personal Lord and Saviour.

Let us take heed of resting in external privileges or performances, lest we deceive ourselves, and perish eternally as multitudes do, with a lie in our right hand. Salvation—being saved—is conditional upon repentance and faith in Jesus Christ—John 3:16—Hebrews 2:1. Salvation is realized in forgiveness—without it—we cannot enter the kingdom of God.

No matter how moral—refined, talented or religious the natural man may be—he is blind to spiritual truth and unable to save himself—regeneration is a spiritual change wrought in a man by the Holy Spirit. John 3:3-13, John 1:9-4:7-5:1 and 1 Peter 1:23. Something to consider and pray about.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Over 50 people attended the monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society on March 3 in the meeting room of the
Dr. Moses Mason House. As this was "Collector's Night" several of those attending brought items from their collections. Among these items exhibited and discussed were jewelry, coffin plates, tools, woodenware, china and snuffspiles.
Program Chairman John Bayerlein led the discussion of items.

Prior to the program, a short business meeting was held. Vice President Jane Hosterman, presiding in the absence of President Marvin Owinga who is in Costa Rica, announced that the next meeting would be April 7 and feature a history of Elm, Winter and Summer streets. Anyone with anecdotes, historical details and/or photographs was urged to let Geraldine Howe know, or call the Society office. The "artifact of the month" was announced as a photograph of Mary Oliver's Sunday School class at the Methodist Church in 1924. In the photo are Dorothea Burbank,
Esther Lapham, Gladys Gibbs, Flora
Swan, Elva Moore, Edna Bean and Priscilla York. The photograph was given to the Society by Edna York who was thanked by Mrs. Hosterman. Mrs.
Hosterman also expressed the Society's gratitude to all who made Heritage Day 1988 such a success.

Society Director Stanley R. Howe introduced Richard Dohrmann, history teacher at Gould Academy, who spoke briefly about the exciting new course offered by the Academy this year. Called

"Writing History" the course is designed to stimulate involvement in local studies. Mr. Dohrmann and his colleague
Will Graham, writing teacher at Gould, have tentatively approved the following topics for student writing projects:
Penelope Durcillova, "The Impact of the National Training Laboratory Upon Bethel"; Ben Michaud, "Fishes on the Androscoggin"; Zac Cook, "Bethel's
Recording Studio"; Kelly Allison, "Four Generations of Bethel Thurstons"; Bel-sy Ingraham, "The Appalachian Trail and the White Mountain National Forest"; Amy Ford, "Bethel's Railroad Station"; Jeff Noyes, "Bethel's Fire

This is your Chamber of Commerce

Each week, this column will spotlight a different member of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce. The purpose is to give some understanding about the various fields of endeavor of the Chamber members.

When it comes to identifying those vital businesses that play an important role in community development, the banking institutions would certainly occupy a prominent position.

In this regard the Bethel branch of Casco Northern Bank, N.A. has provided full banking services to this area since it was first established in 1947. Although initially located in what is now Bethel's Town Office, Casco Bank has been at its present Lower Main Street location for the past 20 years.

It is structured as a subsidiary corporation under the direction of the Bank of Boston and headed by its president, Deniston Gallaudet, at One Monument Square, Portland.

Branch Manager Roger Conant indicates that future plans include the installation of an Automatic Teller Machine, which will enable the staff to better serve its area customers. He also mentioned that the bank's community room still has some availability for public and private meetings.

Mr. Conant said the bank and its staff are especially proud of their long and extensive record of financial service to the region and look forward to continuing their involvement in helping the area and its residents grow and prosper.

CASCO NORTHERN BANK OFFICIALS John Caron and Roger Conant stand in front of the entrance of the Bethel branch.

Congratulations to Brett Wilson, who won the Best of Show Award for the best design and to Nathan Moore, who won the 4th place trophy at the Pinewood Derby of Cub Pack 566.

Nathan's grandparents, Harry and Bernie Moore, were up from Connecticut and were able to attend the Pinewood Derby.

Irene and Lew Charest, Lewiston, were visitors at Joe and Muriel Gilbert's last week; the Gilberts were in Lewiston one day visiting relatives. Howard and Mildred Emery, Westbrook, called on them Friday evening.

Marc and Nathan Moore went to the last day of skiing in the Rug Rat program, which is done by Gould Academy students.

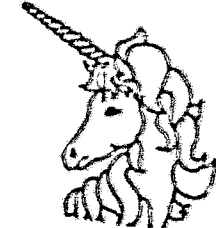

Wednesday evening, Nathan Moore celebrated his birthday with these people, besides his parents and Jennie. Attending: Russ, Judy and Steve Andrews, Shelburne, N.H.; Denny and Rita Wilson and Koral and Eben Smith. Saturday he is having a couple of friends over to celebrate also.

Under the direction of Dewane Craig and Patrick and Ray Harrington, a few of the more experienced scouts of Troop 563 cross-country skied out to Songo Pond for a campout Friday night.

Irene Wilson was not pleased to encounter a skunk early one morning when she got her paper.
